Lessons Learned

I've learned that you cannot make someone love you. All you can do is to be someone who can be loved. The rest is up to them.

I've learned that no matter how much I care, some people just don't care back.

I've learned that it's not what you have in your life but who you have in your life that counts.

I've learned that you can get by on charm for about fifteen minutes. After that, you'd better know something.

I've learned that you can do something in an instant that will give you heartache for life.

I've learned that it's taking me a long time to become the person I want to be.

I've learned you should always leave loved ones with loving words. It may be the last time you see them.

I've learned that you can keep going long after you think you can't.

I've learned that either you control your attitude or it controls you.

I've learned that heroes are the people who do what has to be done when it needs to be done, regardless of the consequences.

I've learned that sometimes the people you expect to kick you when you're down will be the ones to help you get back up.

I've learned that sometimes when I'm angry I have the right to be angry, but that doesn't give me the right to be cruel.

I've learned that just because someone doesn't love you the way you want them to doesn't mean they don't love you with all they have.

I've learned that you shouldn't be so eager to find out a secret. It could change your life.

I've learned that your life can be changed in a matter of hours by people who don't even know you.

Revelation

by: Florence Stone Reeh

There is a famine in the land,
But not of food and drink;
A lack of knowledge is at hand,
Men do not want to think
Of what the Bible has to say
They plan for God to wink
At ignorance, and let them play at being right;
They have no plan,
They have no hope, nor time to pray.
Unless they read the Word, how can
They know what God's prepared for man?

Good Fear and Bad Fear

by John Telgren

My oldest son has been reading the story, Tell Tale Heart in school. I remember reading the same story in school. We talked a little about the meaning behind the story. We discussed the insane paranoia that came from deep-seated inescapable guilt in the story. There is no peace in wickedness.

The Bible makes this very clear. Consider this proverb carefully:

"What the wicked fears will come upon him, But the desire of the righteous will be granted " (Prov 10:24)

This proverb paints a picture of a person consumed with guilt, fear, and paranoia. It will be their undoing. One example is King Ahaz. You can read about it in 1 Chron 28:16-20 (also 1 King 16) and especially Isaiah 7. Ahaz was a wicked king who would not trust in God. He made a treaty with Assyria (rather than trust God) because he was afraid of Aram and Israel attacking him. In the end, Assyria, his supposed helper, attacked him. Truly, "what the wicked fears will come upon him." Consider this next proverb:

"The wicked flee when no one is pursuing, But the righteous are bold as a lion"(Prov 28:1)

I remember stealing a little toy from a store when I was little. It was an inexpensive little hot wheel. I felt pleased with myself at first that no one noticed I took it. When I got home with it, I found that it brought me little joy. I couldn't really play with it for fear I would be caught with it. Even when my friends came over, I had to keep it in hiding. I lived in constant fear of being caught with it. I kept trying to find new and better hiding places for it. I hid it under the dresser, in the vent, between the mattresses, in a shoe. Then there was that time I nearly jumped out of my skin when I was in the process of finding a new hiding place for it. I had the hot wheel in my hand, and then I heard one of my parents walking down the hall. I ran behind my bed ready to fling the tiny toy under my bed. They never came in, they were just going to the restroom.

People do it all the time. There are those who run when they hear police sirens. There is the person who lives in fear of losing their job for fear that his lack of honesty on the job will be found out. There is the one who lives in fear that his affair will be found out. There are those who lie, and out of fear of being found out, they tell more lies which causes even more fear. And the list goes on and on. There is no lasting joy or life in wickedness, only fear.

However, there is a type of fear that is freeing. There is a fear that brings joy and life. It makes you as "bold as a lion." This fear comes not from guilt and paranoia, but from love and respect. Consider this proverb carefully:

"In the fear of the Lord there is strong confidence, And his children will have refuge." (Prov 14:26)

The Difference

Some murmur when their sky is clear,
And wholly bright in view,
If one small speck of dark appear
In their great heaven of blue;
And some with thankful love are filled
If but one streak of light,
One ray of God's good mercy, gild
The darkness of their night.
